These reports are prepared by teams of relevant researchers selected by the Bureau from government nominations. Scholars, academics and students can dig into the chapters and supplementary materials for a thorough and deeper understanding of the evidence.

Food scarcity would be less of a problem and hundreds of millions fewer people. Seventy-two percent of demersal fish species in the northeast Atlantic Ocean have so far been affected, with warming limiting their abundance and spread. The half-degree difference could also prevent corals from being completely eradicated and ease pressure on the Arctic, according to the 1. The IPCC has since acknowledged that the date is incorrect, while reaffirming that the conclusion in the final summary was robust.

However, to prevent the most serious consequences of global warming, a maximum of 1.5°C is needed.
